

To Whom It May Concern:

I am pleased to recommend Jung Hyun Rhoe, who worked as a Senior Software Engineer at Thriver. During his time with us, Jung Hyun demonstrated solid technical skills, professionalism, and dedication to delivering quality front-end solutions.

Jung Hyun's proficiency in JavaScript, React, and modern styling frameworks contributed to several important projects. He led dashboard development initiatives and played a key role in our Group Ordering feature. Jung also efficiently delivered a microsite project generating downloadable PDFs under tight deadlines.

A notable contribution was his work on our migration from Angular to React, which aligned with our company's rebranding and modernization efforts. He also contributed to our design system by developing reusable UI components that became central to our product interface.

Jung's calm approach under pressure was particularly valuable. He handled deadlines and changing priorities while maintaining good code quality and working well with teammates. His attention to detail and work ethic made him a reliable member of our engineering team.

I recommend Jung for front-end engineering positions. His technical skills, product understanding, and consistent delivery would be an asset to any development team.

Please contact me if you need additional information about Jung's qualifications.

Sincerely,
